Feline Therapeutic Massage & Gentle Bodywork

This class introduces pet parents to gentle feline massage therapy and supportive techniques that can help improve comfort, support immune function, and enhance overall quality of life. Participants will learn how to apply safe, intentional techniques that promote relaxation, support nervous system regulation, and contribute to greater ease and well-being in their cats.

The focus of this class is not on “doing more,” but on learning how less can be more powerful. Using lighter touch, shorter sessions, and careful observation you can create significant change, while helping improve overall comfort and mobility. Whether working with your own cat at home or professionally with feline clients you can feel more confident in your techniques and the comfort you are providing.

In this class participants will learn:

- Core feline massage techniques and how each is used to support comfort, mobility, and relaxation
- When and why to choose specific massage techniques based on the cat’s needs
- How other modalities are used with cats, including appropriate use, duration, and safety considerations
- When various techniques may be helpful and when they should be avoided
- A brief overview of feline anatomy as it relates to touch and movement
- Common feline behavioral cues and body language
- Why understanding feline behavior and consent is essential for effective hands-on work
